The WHU Brain Capital tuition financing concept offers a risk free financing alternative for tuition fees in the WHU / Bucerius MLB Program

How it works

- Participants in the WHU Brain Capital tuition financing concept do not pay any tuition fees during their studies
- However, they commit themselves to paying a fixed percentage of their income after graduation – as postponed tuition fees, dependent on their income

Payments:

- No payment during the studies (no tuition fees, no interest)
- Upon graduation, payment 6-8% of the gross income for a period of 10 years
- No payments in years with low income (additional studies, childcare times, entrepreneurial activities)
- Obligation to pay adapts to ability to pay: effective tuition fees depend on the success realized by/after the MLB studies

Advantages from a student point of view

No fixed payment obligation

- Upon graduation, there is no fixed payment obligation
- No payments required in case of further studies, start-up foundation, childcare times, unemployment
- No bankruptcy risk

Tuition fees proportional to success

- Effectively tuition fees are proportional to the income
- Payment obligation increases in line with payment ability
- „Return“ of the educational investment stays constant

Time of payment

- Payments only have to be made once an income is earned
- Obligation to pay stops in years with low income

Tax benefit

- In contrast to other financing options, payments are tax-deductible at the time of payment and thus a substantial tax benefit is available (legal situation only checked for Germany, deductibility within legal limits)
